Pros

The Millennium Group has proven to be a positive work environment where colleagues often work together to create the efficiency we are known for. Many projects I have worked on have been done so with the help of other colleagues in different departments, and vice versa, in order to carry out our initiatives. TMG associates are often recognized for their excellence from site to site, whether it be from their Manager, or even the client itself, and these kudos are not only awarded, but displayed on our Twitter account to promote even further motivation to go above and beyond.
